

Public Land & Resources Law Review

Volume 42

Article 2

August 2020

Letter From The Editor

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarship.law.umt.edu/plrlr>

Part of the Administrative Law Commons, Agriculture Law Commons, Animal Law Commons, Cultural Heritage Law Commons, Energy and Utilities Law Commons, Environmental Law Commons, Indian and Aboriginal Law Commons, Land Use Law Commons, Law and Race Commons, Natural Resources Law Commons, Oil, Gas, and Mineral Law Commons, Science and Technology Law Commons, and the Water Law Commons

Recommended Citation

(2020) "Letter From The Editor," Public Land & Resources Law Review. Vol. 42 , Article 2.

Available at: <https://scholarship.law.umt.edu/plrlr/vol42/iss1/2>

This Editor's Note is brought to you for free and open access by The Scholarly Forum @ Montana Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in Public Land & Resources Law Review by an authorized editor of The Scholarly Forum @ Montana Law.

PUBLIC LAND & RESOURCES LAW REVIEW

Dear Public Land & Resources Law Review Reader,

In this 42nd volume of the Public Land & Resources Law Review, we bring you a collection of articles from various contributors of our recent conference. This past fall, in conjunction with the University of Calgary Faculty of Law, the 38th Public Land Law Conference, titled Carved by Glaciers: Stewardship Across the Northern Rockies, brought participants and attendees from the United States and Canada to the Alexander Blewett III School of Law at the University of Montana to discuss a wide range of natural resource issues. Panels included environmental regulation, energy, wildlife, water and fisheries, tribal natural resource issues, and featured a keynote address by Canadian Supreme Court Justice Russell Brown and closing remarks by Vancouver attorney David Gooderham.

This volume focuses on the issues addressed by our conference participants. As shown by authors and in articles from both the United States and Canada, modern issues of natural resource management and climate change vary little as we transcend boundaries. While individual approaches may change from place to place, the professionalism and passion of the natural resource legal community is evident regardless of its origin. There is much to learn from our neighbors, whomever they may be.

Finally, we appreciate the hard work of the staff and the constant support, advocacy, and guidance from our advisors, Professors Michelle Bryan and Monte Mills. Welcome to the 42nd edition of the Public Land & Resources Law Review; we are proud to present this collection of scholarship. Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

The Public Land & Resources Law Review Editorial Board—May 2020.